Chapter 1 by Story Wars

Now, first let me clarify that we're dissing Harry The Person here, not the series, which in all fairness was a pretty good series.

Second of all, you can pretty much say anything bad about Harry, as long it's

- a) True (as in it can be reasonably assumed)
- b) Not profane/explicit
- c) Humorous

Also, try to limit to only 1 defect every chapter.

So, let's talk about Harry Potter. Who is he? The Chosen one? A mediocre wizard with a lot of balls? A spoiled (or maybe not) rich kid with a Firebolt to play Quidittich with?

Actually, let's talk about Quidittich. I gotta say, Harry is really not a reliable guy. Out of the six years he played Quidittich at the school, was there a SINGLE year where he was able to play in each and every game?

No.

I mean, they should've kicked him off the team a LONG time ago. I mean, sure, Voldemort and stuff does take priority over a game of Quidittch, but man, McGonagall shoulda kicked his ass off the team WAY long time ago. I mean, can you think of a single football (american and normal) player that stayed on the team all the games for 6 straight years in a row?

Chapter 2 by ((N))

Now we all can see that Hermoine is WAY more brave than Harry is.

By being brave, smart and a lot more things harry gets a spot between Ron (who is at the bottom of the pit), and Hermione (who is the excellent in LOTS of things).

That means he's AVERAGE!

How can an average guy get such a difficult task?

Hermione can do all of that. With closed eyes. Or maybe one eye closed...

But there is a twist, as you all know that. He survived Voldemorts attack when he was a baby.

So, that leads to our question: HOW COULD HE CONTROL THAT MUCH POWER!? AS A BABY!

Well it's simple. We have two options:

- 1)It was a coincidence, everyone has that power, but they don't know about it.
- 2)Someone else (unknown character) protected him, and Voldemort is weak. Teachers seem to be weaker than the actual students.

What also could be happening trough the whole series of Harry Potter is that everyone is just drunk as hell.

Chapter 3 by Writer's Block

Talking about Harry as a baby - Why the hell didn't Voldemort just throw the baby out of the window when Harry was a child?

I mean sure, throwing out a baby and seeing it hit the concrete floor with all it's brains spilling out is a bit messier than Avada Kedavra but it's still more effective than the spell which obviously DID NOT WORK!

Also, why was Voldemort completely heart-broken (not that he had a heart in the first place) and totally destroyed just because he couldn't kill baby Harry with a spell? Why did he just disappear that night leaving his mission?

Also, why not use magic to fix everything? I'm pretty sure there's a spell somewhere to fix Harry's vision (spectacles can be irritating sometimes), spells to clean everything and make food (then why is Molly Weasley always in the kitchen?) and spells to pretty much do everything.

Clearly drunk.

Chapter 4 by Selene S

Harry has zero deductive reasoning. Slytherin's symbol is a snake, Slytherin was a parselmouth. I wonder what Slytherin's monster is, maybe ...a SNAKE?! And he couldn't recognize Professor Snape's handwriting in the Half Blood Prince's journal even though he'd been reading off a blackboard for 5+ years (granted his handwriting could have changed, this is mostly about the slytherin one).

Chapter 5 by kookaburra

harry is good...how dare u diss him!!!!!!

Chapter 6 by Cat4055

First off, is it just me or is Dumbledore and other teachers playing favorites, loving Gryffondor, hating Slytherin. There are so many nice Slytherin kids who are nice but people hate them because of a few other people who turned evil! Also, the sorting hat sorts when kids are 11. You would be lying if you said you didn't change at all from the time when you were 11, to when you were 18.

I mean, at the end of every year, the house with the most points wins the house cup. Gryffondor always wins the awards like fifty gazillion points to Gryffondor and BAM! they win the house cup.

I mean, I would be really pissed and would've shanked Harry with his wand already.

Chapter 8 by Tanisha

Ok. Lets turn this thing around. As far as I can see the rules say you can only say something if it is true. Barely any of these are true.

Chapter 1

Don't try to diss Quiddich when you can't even spell it properly. Also There are only three games that Gryffindor has to play, versing each of the other houses. So he didn't miss the games. There was just no game to play. Also the house cup is a different thing to the Quiddich Cup. The House Cup is awarded to the house with the most house points. You can get more points from the quiddich but it is to with house points not the quiddich game.

Also, you are only spoilt if you are really pampered and only want expensive things. A good example of a spoilt child would be Draco Malfoy.

Chapter 2

Right obviously you haven't read the book properly. Harry Potter is protected by the love of his mother Lily and that stays in his blood. If you think I'm making this up just go read the book.

You just wish that you have a secret power.

Chapter 3

The Advada Kedavra doesn't work because the power bounces back at him and his own spell hits him. You can't exactly throw anybody out the window after that.

Also, there are just some things that magic can't fix and Molly Weasley does use magic in the kitchen, just not for everything.

Chapter 4

This is true. Except for the fact that the 'snake' was going around petrifying people and writing in blood. Also Harry could hear it. Snakes don't really talk do they? They didn't know that Harry was a parselmouth.

Chapter 6

There is a reason Dumbledore seems to be always be taking points off Slytherin. They are always doing something wrong. Also, in case you haven't noticed, Snape seems to always take points off Gryffindor. For no reason.

Chapter 7

The reason Dumbledore gives points off to Gryffindor is because they were unfairly taken in the first place. When the troll was released Ron and Harry saved Hermione when the teachers were busy doing nothing. Points were taken by Snape (again taking points off for bad/no reason) because they had gone off without permission. Don't you think the good outweighs the bad? I mean the reason they had to sneak off is because they wanted to keep everybody save from the troll.

I'm sorry that this was so long but there was a lot I had to make up for.

the end
